Germans Retiring on Front From Soissons to Rheims
ENEMY BADLY BEATEN
ABANDONS RAILWAYS

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 29.—Restoration of the great Paris-Chateau Thierry-Châlons railway, the best means of retreating the Champagne front, seems the most valuable strategic result to the allies from the German retreat. The railway will be an important factor in future military developments. Military action now may become stabilized between Soissons and Rheims, where the Germans are apparently concentrating great forces, but the fact remains that the enemy is badly beaten and has been forced to abandon nearly half the advantages gained since July 15th. Losses and the number of reserves will probably determine whether the enemy will make a stand on the plateau south of the Vesle or continue retirement to the heights between the Vesle and Aisne.

Noon.—The allies have pushed beyond Fere en Tardenois. They maintained their positions everywhere in the face of strong German counterattacks. They changed hands four times, finally remaining in possession of the allies. Artillery dueling is extremely violent north of the Ourcq to Soissons.

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, July 29.—Four hundred Germans were captured yesterday in fighting north of the Marne.

Fighting for mastery of Ville en Tardenois, the German strong point on the southeasterly side of the salient was continuing late last night. The allies, gradually gaining the ascendancy, entered the southern portion and defeated all German efforts to dislodge them.

The allies had the task of crossing the Ourcq in the face of the strongest German fire after conquering Fere en Tardenois. Not a bridge was intact. They succeeded in surmounting all obstacles and secured a foothold on the northern bank, where they present a serious menace to the enemy infantry.

Artillery is heavily engaged further south toward the center of the pocket. The allies gained Champigny after several hours of furious combat. Advanced guards have reached Ronchères. Cavalry patrols have entered into action in Meunier wood and Villers, Agron and Aignay. The enemy used a great quantity of gas shells. The fumes remained in the woods a long time. Advance over the Dormans-Rheims road necessitated the greatest precautions because of the enormous number of enemy machine guns under cover. The allies are now beyond the wooded country on the eastern flank.

AMERICANS CAPTURE
FERE EN TARDENOIS
AND SEIZE RAILWAYS

(By Associated Press)
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY
ON THE AISNE-MARNE FRONT,
July 29.—The Franco-Americans are slashing vigorously and striking the German rear with the prospect of nearing the river Andre before night. They occupied the German base of Fere en Tardenois.

The line extends almost straight southwest from Rheims to Olisey of Violan. The Germans have higher ground in the region of Champigny and have some advantage in artillery duels.

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 29.—The German retreat is continuing along the whole line of the Soissons-Rheims salient with the allies in close pursuit, which advanced them more than two miles on a twenty-mile front.

The French advance was checked to a certain extent, but not stopped. The French reached the north bank of the Ourcq and secured the whole road between Rheims and Dormans. The Germans are resisting stubbornly and burning villages.

Fires between Soissons and Bazoches indicate the Germans may intend a further retreat. Heavy fighting is continuing in the neighborhood of Bucancy. The French made new progress there. There is little doubt that the enemy will retire beyond the Vesle to a thirty-mile line between Rheims and Soissons, which probably is entrenched and has a good line of communication. Retirement has been orderly and deliberate. The capture of only four guns is reported.

Although heavily hammered the Americans replied in like along the river. The fighting shifted back and forth through Serpy, three miles southeast of Fere en Tardenois. Finest Prussian Guard
Division Halted by Yanks

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, July 29.—Advices reaching London show that the Americans stood like a stone wall at Serpy when the Germans last night threw in the whole fourth division of Prussian guards, and stopped, clearly a desperate German counter. Dispatches said the Prussians suffered heavy losses, especially from American machine gunners. The use of the choicest Teuton battalions indicates that Germany has learned to respect the men from the United States.

On THE FRENCH FRONT, July 29 (Noon).—It appears the enemy is determined to hold the line stretching from Ville en Tardenois to the Ourcq. Germans strongly occupy Ville en Tardenois but the allies are keeping in constant touch with the enemy there. The allies occupied Cohette wood, captured two field guns, two 6-inch cannon and much ammunition.

The Americans at Reconcour defeated a strong attack by a chosen Prussian guard division.

FIEREST FIGHTING
EAST OF RHEIMS

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, July 29.—The Germans launched a heavy counter attack against the French east of Rheims. The fighting is proceeding without either gaining much advantage, the latest dispatches said. The French advanced half a mile near Grand Rossey on an important front between Soissons and the Ourcq. The French surrounded Bucancy and captured 200 Germans. Later they lost the village. Germans are continuing their retirement but resisting strongly at several points, especially on the eastern wing. Among the casualties, Major Edwards was wounded severely.
